Other information

Sally is a nationally accredited, advanced Mediator Practitioner with LEADR and a highly experienced practicing Cinergy™ Conflict Coach with over 25 years experience working with conflict, stress, relationship and communication breakdown as her core business. For more than a decade Sally has been focused on providing ADR services across a wide range of workplaces including Victorian Public Service, education, local government, health, human services, manufacturing and banking. She is a member of a number of mediator panels that span several industry groups (eg Department of Human Services, Catholic Education Office, and ANZ bank). Through the close association between the Department of Human Services and Momentum – Changing Mindsets, and its prior entity, KCA Injury & Conflict Management, she has been able to specialise and hone her skills to the unique needs of the public service, especially in the field of bullying and harassment.

Sally's clinical background and diagnostic skills combined with her extensive ADR experience, mindfulness practice, neuro-awareness and high level communication skills, enhance her ability to provide the highest quality ADR service, at the right time, in the right way, to effect the best possible outcome for the parties and the client, resulting in sustainable solutions. Her expertise includes individual, two, multi – party conflict situations and small to large team interventions.

Sally is highly committed to the profession and has been an active member of LEADR for 10 years. She recently held the position of Chair of the Victorian Chapter Executive of LEADR, as part of an ongoing position on the Victorian Chapter Executive, and as a Director of the Board for a number of years. She continues to be a lead coach in the Mediation Training courses for LEADR, and a regular coach for LEADR and The Trillium Group. She is also a member of the Victorian Association of Dispute Resolvers (VADR).
